The experience gained at Fermilab has been very positive. It allowed me to have a feeling of the dynamics of a world-leading research center and to test the knowledge acquired during the academic studies. The feedback from the business world is of fundamental importance and it is a crucial element of enrichment. In fact it allows to enter the labor market with a greater awareness of the context in which we will be involved.

The added value of the internship was the opportunity to share two months with colleagues of great value that helped me growing, facing new challenges together.

I think that it is a milestone of the professional and human training and I would recommend everyone to live it.

Alessandro Cingoli